

Peterson Pathways peterson hospice

Peterson Pathways is a community program designed to help individuals and families cope with life-limiting illness. A volunteer offers a weekly visit to assist a person who is isolated and/or needs additional companionship. The Pathways program offers support and socialization but not medical care or assistance.

Peterson Pathways is solely staffed by Peterson Hospice Volunteers that contribute a variety of skills and backgrounds enabling Pathways to be offered at no charge in our community.

Pathways services can be offered in a client's home - wherever that may be - such as a private residence, nursing facility, assisted living or independent living.

If someone is dealing with a disease(s):

- That prevents involvement socially in the
- That leads the individual to feel isolated or lonely
- Needs help in finding appropriate community resources to maintain independence
- If the family caregiver needs an occasional break
